Mill Market Bakery Gets a New Name this Winter

Hawley, PA (January 3rd, 2019) —There are big changes coming to the silk mill this winter. The first to be shared with the public is that The Mill Market Bakery will be rebranding into the Cocoon Coffeehouse & Bakery to combine these two signature brands. The retail operations will dwell in the current Cocoon Coffeehouse which will be adding additional cases for pastries and bread. The whole sale operations will remain the same, offering specialty cakes, pies, breads and other items for order. Cocoon Coffeehouse Bakery will also offer fresh eggs, local dairy, local honey and an expanded pastry offering.

Executive Pastry Chef Julia Kent stated, "Expect to see even more pastries and watch as our creativity flourishes with new designs and creations."

The Mill Market Bakery retail operations are currently housed inside the Hawley Silk Mill but will be moving to the Cocoon Coffeehouse. Cocoon Coffeehouse & Bakery will be closed for renovations January 21st with plans to reopen Wednesday January 30th. A new favorite at Cocoon has been the Donut Sundays with artisan house made donuts only available on Sunday. This program will continue as its popularity grows. Don't forget to check out the seasonal selections of pastries, breads and cookies. The current Mill Market Bakery location will be closing its doors on January 6th to move over to the Cocoon Coffeehouse January 7th.

"This change is an exciting step forward for the company to tie together these two great brands" said owner Justin Genzlinger.

More changes to be announced soon.
